1. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
2. Claims 5 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. More particularly, despite applicants' arguments to the contrary in claim 5, last line, Markush language should be utilized and also in line I "area" should be properly characterized as —of the surface— to clearly indicate that it is the surface to which the double sided adhesive strip is attached which is being referred to. In claim 8 "spacers" at the moment has no meaningful relationship to the remainder of the claim, i.e. is this a kit claim?
3. Claims 1, 5, 7, 8, 10-13 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over newly relied upon Luhmann et al –747. The reference discloses (note particularly the Abstract, Figures 1,4 and 5, Col 1, line 51 – Col 2, line 27, Col 3 lines 8-27, lines 41-50, Col 4, lines 7-23) substantially an anticipation of what appears to be applicants' preferred embodiment except for an express teaching of the two ranges of roughness parameters which are present on the "surface", i.e. the surface of the "structure" to which the adhesive strip is attached. Notice, however that the reference clearly teaches as can be seen in the embodiments set forth in Figs. 4 and 5 that the adhesive strip can be attached to a variety of planar, solid surfaces (Col 3, lines 45-47), at least some of which would either inherently read upon or render obvious the claimed ranges of the two roughness parameters. With respect to the issue of obviousness the examiner firmly believes that the bonding properties of the adhesive strip would be highly predictable depending upon what sort of surface the adhesive strip was adhered to.
